

Region of Lakes on Route of Proposed Sunday Tour

Many points of interest and scenic beauty are on the route of a Sunday drive through northeastern Ohio, outlined by Mrs. D. V. Gallagher, secretary of the Marion Auto club.

The objective of the drive is Akron, where visitors may view the sister ship of the "Akron" giant dirigible, now under construction. The framework of the sister ship has been completed and the covering is being fastened in place. Visitors, Mrs. Gallagher said, are permitted to enter the huge hangar.

Abounds in Lakes

Akron also is in the heart of a region of small lakes, most of which are bordered by attractive resorts and recreation spots. A judicious lunch packed for a pleasant noon hour in one of these resorts will help hold expenses of the trip to a minimum.

The first leg of the drive will take the motorist out of Marion to the east on route 305 to Mansfield where the motorist will strike route 42 to the northeast. Follow route 42 through Ashland and West Salem to Zanesville, then east on route 17. Follow route 17 through Leroy, Westworth and Western Star. In the northwest corner of the triangle of routes 17 and 201 is located the giant bridge where the dry globe is now under construction.

A number of lakes broken up in Akron vicinity. Four of them are accessible to the south on route 97 and are part of a state park.

Drive 10 miles to the northeast of Akron and one can be reached by following route 201 to Kent and route 43 to North of Kent.

Reach Congress Lake to the southwest of Akron following route 17 to the intersection with route 43 and turn south on route 43 to the lake.

Autumn Drive Home

Cayuga Lake on route 8 north

Sam Cordell Hull (center) of Tennessee who the choice of Roosevelt backers for chairman of the resolutions committee at the Democratic national convention in Chicago. With him are Joseph F. Giffey (left) of Pittsburgh, leader of Roosevelt forces in Pennsylvania, and Robert F. Jackson, secretary of the Democratic national committee.

of Akron, offers some attractive country.

A worthwhile return trip may be taken by following route 8 from Akron to Wooster, the home of Wooster College, and by following route 1 from Wooster to London Mills and on to Vernon. Beautiful scenery abounds in this rolling section of the state. At Mt. Vernon turn to the northwest on route 1 to Udelordtown and at Fredricks on strike route 95 to the west to Marion by way of Chester and Mt. Gilead, Weston and Chester.

Wheat Harvest Nears as Dry Weather Ripens Grain

Crop Varying Early This Year. Farm Bureau Manager Reports Yield To Be Average Although Acreage Is Lower; Drouth Hits Farmers.

Grain will be hauled into Leeper reported that corn is knee-high in a number of Marion county fields, and that the crop will be average, both in acreage and yield, providing a normal amount of rainfall during the next two months. The wheat crop, in Leeper's opinion, will not be equal to that last year. Wheat is suffering from lack of moisture, and the acreage is high because of low prices, he said.

Hay Harvest Started.
Soy beans, planted last month, also feel the need of rainfall. The soy bean acreage is normal, Leeper said.

A number of farmers are harvesting clover hay, and others have taken in a crop of alfalfa. The dry weather has also resulted in a light hay crop.

Weeds have been held in check by lack of rain, although Leeper reported that oats fields are weedy in some parts of the county.

The dry weather which has been so good to the wheat has been a decided disadvantage to other crops, however. The oats crop, already sown, will shrink still further if there is no rainfall within a few days, Leeper said. The crop will be unusually light even if the fields are given needed moisture before the late harvest season late next month, Leeper said.

Barley, usually ranks between wheat and corn among Marion county crops.

corn has been growing rapidly, helped by light rainfall last week.

part of the city on Wednesdays and Saturdays. At each playground the older boys gather in the mornings and the younger boys are present at the afternoon sessions. The program has been worked out by the playground officials with the purpose of assisting in the boys' physical betterment, his educational development, his appreciation and his spiritual choices and growth. To attain this purpose the baseball games and other forms of competitive sports are not the only methods employed, as woodcarving, first aid, talks by prominent men in the city, swimming, nature study, and story telling all have their place in the varied programs.

Once each week the boys are given a free swim at the T. M. C. A. pool, and nearly once a week interplayground contests are held. Before the season has ended awards will be made on the basis of sportsmanship, ability, cooperation, and friendliness. About one hundred boys will earn Y playground caps, 20 will be given plain sweater emblems, while 10 will receive the leader emblem.

Although in the last two years Mr. May has counted on one or more assistants to aid him in directing the activities of the boys, this year he has undertaken the entire work himself.

"The boys have all taken a keen interest thus far and are all ambitious to work for the different awards," Mr. May commented. "The discipline and cooperation among the boys has been excellent."

BARONESS WINS FAME Now Leading U. S. Woman Sculptor

BARONESS SCULPTOR WORKING IN HER STUDIO

By International News Service
NEW YORK—During the war, a charming young girl came from Belgium to lecture on her country and its people. Today she is one of America's most brilliant women sculptors, with works in private and public collections both here and in Europe. During the week-end she is the Baroness Baroness Farnham, with a lovely home at New Haven. But during the week she is Susanne Farnham, working in bronze, granite or marble at her New York studio.

Much has happened since those days to the slender, dynamic young woman who is the daughter of Belgium's Chief Justice, Baron Silverberg. She married an American and soon after coming to New Haven to live, was taken seriously ill. When she was convalescing, some one bought her a little clay modelling outfit and she began to model delightful little figures. So good was her work that in 1926 she entered the School of Fine Arts at Yale university, where her father-in-law is a professor. She completed the five-year course in three years and in 1928 was graduated from Yale with a Fine Arts degree and a score of prizes and medals.

In kept busy.

It wasn't long before the art world began to notice Susanne Farnham. Commissions began to come in and before she knew it, she was overwhelmed with work. The authorities of Louvain university commissioned Mrs. Farnham to make a bust of President Hoover for its library. The work was completed in three sittings of 20 minutes each and Mrs. Hoover requested a copy for the White House, declaring that it was the best likeness of the President she had seen. For the Queen of the Belgians, the artist made a lovely head of her grandchild, the Princess Josephine Charlotte.

In kept busy.

This year is an exceptionally busy one for Susanne Farnham. She has been commissioned by the Olympic committee to make statues of the contestants from Yale and the works are now being cast. Each figure is indeed a masterpiece, modelled from life and with the aid of action pictures and movies. Arrangements are being made to award the statues as trophies.

In kept busy.

Gambler's Throw

TWENTY THREE
on the Beach
A washstand in the was a stool and at the edge still in the light. A few a wrinkled table and one edge a book and at the edge of the was lying down at the knife and napkin.
He lifted the latter holding it by the and fastened it beneath the did it inch by inch a depressed sigh he king for finger prints scope, he said re-greatly. "Might as well pick up the knife too. The bird that did Williams in stole the knife and the rapkin at dinner time wrapped the handle of the knife in the napkin so as not to leave any prints.

Better take care of the kid and well look them over in the morning.
But I don't believe we'll find anything."

"I'll send for Alfred and see from whose place the things were stolen," suggested Ashwood.
"You declare the detective pessimistically. If the fellow was smart enough to cover up his finger prints this way he wouldn't have stolen the tools from his own place. Might be the best way of finding out who did not do it though. The one whose things were missing is innocent."

He roved around the room restlessly, his hands even examining everything. Then he straightened up, looked at Ashwood and shook his head.

One of these homicide experts could find a lot more with the proper instruments—microscope chemicals and such. But I don't see a thing he looks like a clue.
The fiber of this rug doesn't hold the imprint of my own feet even for more than two or three days after I step down hard on it. No bloody finger marks except those this poor devil made when he tried to crawl off the bed. Clothes aren't mustied and no attempt made at robbery. Don't see any motive at all.

All right then, snapped Ash-wood decisively. "I'll look the door and have the men clean up in the morning."

The three filed out silently. The others—Lucel Mallory, Martin Ba-tties and Hamilton were still standing nervously in the hall guarded by the armed and vigilant Mueller.
The cripple looked the bedroom door then wheeled about and faced the others.

Gentlemen, he announced curt-ly, someone has just murdered Mr.
Williams. If any of you have heard any suspicious sounds this evening I would like you to tell me.

There was a shuddering gasp from one of the listening men but all stood there gazing at Ashwood as though hypnotized. He survived each of them in turn in the order of their nearness to the door, leading into the scene of the tragedy.

Then amid the deathly silence that hung over the strange tableau the sound of running feet was heard. Something about the hastening footsteps caused a chill to run through the listeners. It seemed to come in all simultaneously that the rapidly approaching man was bringing news that would add to the horor of the night.

Ashwood's face stony, waited.
One of the guards panting raced down the corridor. Seeing the strange group, he hesitated, his eyes darting from one white face to another. Then he blurted out his news.

Step-By-Step Instruction Diagrams Included With This Pattern

For the stylish matron we have designed this charming and elegant afternoon dress. The flat facing collar and deep point of the skirt add height and detract from the width of the flounce. Contrasting material on the sleeve flares.

Boss of Michaels been croaked Throat cut. His gal and all his am-munition's gone.

Ashwood again scanned the face of each man who stood there in the hall. He studied each expression searchingly, lingeringly as though he might read the guilt or innocence of each in the breathless silence which had enveloped them all like a fog. At length his face showing no shade of emotion, he stepped forward.

"Will you gentlemen kindly go to your rooms and remain there?
This is no more a suggestion than a command."

Holl burst out. I need my face contorted. I'm going to sit in the big room. I'm not going to have anyone creeping in and sitting my lips for me."

The cripple studied Lucelle face thoughtfully.

"You may shut yourself about all day, he acknowledged indifferently, but if you do it will be in the safety and the seclusion of your own room. If anyone disturbs your meditations, you may shout for me.
Mueller will stand watch here in the hall."

There was an instant silence.
Jerry tensed his muscles in anticipation of a sudden clash. Lucelle glanced at Mallory who now cold sober returned the look meaning-ly. The killer was anxious to note that for the moment at least there were two allies, not enemies. He saw Mallory's heavy form gather itself for a spring. Lucelle too stood on the balls of his feet, his hands opening and shutting.

Ashwood backed swiftly against the wall, his gun pointing at Lucelle's midriff. Mueller's automatic cracked. The outside guard moved close to the gangster, patting him deftly in search for a weapon. The gangster's malevolent eyes glanced at the armed men then he relaxed and submitted silently to the search. Mallory too was swiftly examined. Jerry could see fine beads of perspiration upon the turbulent stockbroker's brow as by sheer force of will the man gained control of himself.

"Stevens," said Ashwood at last.

"I wonder if you would accompany me?"
"Sure, replied the detective.
"Guthrie," continued the cripple.
"I'd be glad if you and Batties would remain here until we return.
You two will please leave your doors open."

Mr. Hamilton laughed an edged hole of hysteria in his voice. He went into his room, bolted the door but the sound of his shrill laughter was still audible. One after another the others turned away to follow the cripple's instructions.

Ashwood, Stevens and the guards were left alone in the hall.

Wordlessly, the detective, the cripple and the outside guard walked to the beach where bathed in the steely glare of the moon, lay a huddled distorted figure. A ghostly black smear across the throat told of the manner of his death.

Major in the International series just concluded rested with the home clubs—the western teams in the American League and the eastern outfit in the national.

There was no question as to the all-around superiority of the east in the National circuit. Philadelphia, New York, Brooklyn and Boston won 31 games and lost 24 to the four western clubs.

In the American League it took the sensational play of the St. Louis Browns and the complete collapse of the Boston Red Sox to turn the tide to the west 24 victories against 31 defeats.

The Chicago Cubs closed their National League trip in the east yesterday by dropping a slogging match to the Phillies, 16-10. Chuck Klein hit his 21st home with the bases filled in the fifth. The Boston Braves nipped Brooklyn, 6-1 in ten innings. Al Spohr's triple after Maranville's single breaking up the game. The Giants got the pitching from Fred Fitzsimmons and walked off the St. Louis Cardinals, 8-1.

In the American League, Gorham hammered three home runs driving in seven runs and the Browns defeated the Yankees, 14-10. Babe Ruth hit his 22nd homer and Lou Gehrig his 18th in a home run contest.

Most of the softball fans here last season seemed of the opinion that Zig Snyder had seen his best pitching days. However, since the start of this season a lot of them are beginning to think he is yet capable of showing a lot of the supposedly better twirlers a thing or two about this business of flinging them across the pine bushes. He took the mound for the Shovel yesterday against the Auglaize A. C. nine and gave them just one little single while his mates rounded out enough hits to produce two runs and make the final score of the battle 6-0 for the Shovel. Snyder has put on several other worthy exhibitions this season. He

CAPONE GANG LOSING GROUND

Officials Believe Threatening Civil War May Wreck Crime Syndicate.

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO June 24.—The next battle of gangland's deadly machine guns may also be the death rattle of the giant crime syndicate built by Scarface Al Capone.

That civil warfare may free the city from its encircling terrors was the theory advanced today by a high enforcement official.

On his desk lay a diagram of all branches of the vast Capone empire from which the Jalap gangster derived his power.

And the gangsters whom followers Capone left were believed by investigators to have decimated in the St. Valentine's day massacre of 1929—George (Bugs) Moran, mortal enemy of Capone, may be the man to set the spark.

Public Enemy George (Bugs) Barker was moved down by machine gunners last week. Capone's Neutennians, his friends, carried the casket.

Barker's ambition was to control everything in Chicago that moved on wheels. Barker was author of 28 separate racketeers.

Barker the official said, apparently wanted to kill because he aspired to the throne of Capone.

He was the racket master of the Capone gang and one of its forces is a week from another Capone-Heisterer war if Capone is not killed.

Ever since Capone was sent to Alcatraz the underworld has rallied to a new and a more powerful position. Off from a year ago, the men killed in the office days ago were most of Moran's allies themselves.

NOT QUITE WHAT THEY SEEM

At first glance these young ladies will appear remarkably familiar. In fact, nine out of ten would say they are four well-known movie stars. But actually they are the doubles of the screen queens and winners of the recent national movie star doubles contest. Left to right are: Kitty Wagner, as Joan Marlowe; Eleonor Taylor, as Joan Crawford; Ethel Ward, as Dolores Costello, and Arthur Fulle, as Greta Garbo. All are of Atlantic City, N. J.

DESPOLIED CHURCH CORNERSTONE

Times are indeed getting tough when the few coins in the cornerstone of a church are no longer safe. Rev. Harry W. Patterson, of the Faith Methodist Episcopal church, Philadelphia, is shown carefully inspecting the spot from which the cornerstone was removed recently by thieves. Police and church officials are puzzled by the strange theft, inasmuch as the stone contained only a few old coins.

New Witch Broth
Wales Will Remember
The Terraplane Mystery
The Devil Man Shouted

By ANTHONY BRINNAN

WITCH LADIES put themselves in the condition of their terrible broth.

Eyes of hens and toe of frog.

Wood of bat and tongue of dog.

Also, you remember the hairy finger fillet of a Jerry snake adders fork and hind worm with.

All that is nothing to the 400 Roosevelt broth now being concocted in Chicago. Every ingredient is mixed in the strongest soup.

If the New York governor can't stop the dish prepared by the Stop Roosevelt crowd, he will prove himself an able politician.

WITCH of the following happenings would be called news?

In New York a lawyer 40 years old jumped to death. In Chile there is a man who has not slept in his bed for 10 years. In France there is a man who has not slept in his bed for 15 years. THE PRINTS OF WALTERS was 38 years old yesterday and looks back over a long year.

In it took up fast motor boat racing, collecting in the streets.

Two of his horses in Canada were turned. He was ill several days, got a new dog to replace the old one.

Played Santa Claus with white children on Christmas eve, when a very different was arranged.

LAST NIGHT in Dublin, Phoenix Park, well known as the scene of a great political tragedy, a scene very different was arranged.

Entirely Satisfactory.

New York's Governor Roosevelt turns over Sam uel Seabury's charge against Mayor Walker to the gentleman himself—for an answer. A more miserable arrangement is hard to imagine.

Mayor Walker intends to go to Chicago. He will be under no obligation to answer Judge Seabury therefore until he is back home. Then there will be plenty of time to consider what is to be done.
Procrastination is a relatively unimportant detail of governmental mismanagement under Governor Roosevelt's jurisdiction is a small price to pay for his chance to go into the limelight for a presidential nomination with clean hands.

It is perfectly proper that the mayor should have an opportunity to continue presentation of his side of the case. What seemed at the time to be Walker brilliance in the formal legislative inquiry since has been tarnished by the reaction of public opinion against the nation's most famous wise-cracker. A nation admires him for his ability to escape reality but the taxpayers of New York won't find it an easy task to laugh off suspicion of municipal graft on a big scale. Mr. Walker will need all the chances he can to show that he has neither tolerated nor been a party to anything as major of New York City that needs to be glanced over.

Governor Roosevelt asked to take action needed to be in a bad hole right at the moment when it was imperative that he be viewed standing on a pedestal. The Walker case was a hot potato in a hand that will be hot the next few days. What easier than to pass it back to little Jimmy's Nothing. Everything is entirely satisfactory now until Democrats either have named Franklin D. Roosevelt as their presidential candidate—or someone else.

There is almost the subject for a sermon in a cement block that was placed beside the public drinking fountain on the courthouse esplanade one day this week.

It was placed there because of the thoughtful and kindly nature of a Marion citizen. Fred Hochstatter, former Marion merchant who has retired from active business life but continues active in taking an interest in the welfare and happiness of others noticed that small children were unable to drink from the fountain without receiving a helping hand. The water jets were beyond their reach and if assistance was lacking they went with thirst unquenched.

So Mr. Hochstatter decided that something should be done about it. He called at the office of the county commissioners and asked permission to provide an elevation for the tiny Marionites. The permit was granted and a dealer in building supplies contributed the cement block.

There is not much material in this for newspaper headlines like those which announce the gifts of millionaire philanthropists but in an expression of kindly and considerate human spirit it is of great significance. It joins the way to the possibilities of doing good that lie within the scope of everyday separations of their means.

To be obvious, thoughtful and considerate in our attitude toward others is the only requirement.
Unfortunately too many people think that viewpoint solely to themselves and their own interests. Doubtless hundreds of other persons had noticed the difficulties encountered by thirsty children seeking a drink from the courthouse fountain. But none of them viewed the incident as did Mr. Hochstatter which after all is not surprising. Most of us are not going about intent upon doing good.

Almost Unheard Of.

That the president of the United States should speak right out at the bedside of the dying world disarmament conference saying of all things that armaments actually should be reduced is almost as unheard of as it was a ridiculous proposal to abolish arms altogether. That I once immediately should refer to it to consider such a proposition restores reality to the episode.

President Roosevelt's plan, it is indeed, has no connection with war debts, despite the fact it was reported reliably from Europe the preceding day that the United States had suggested a possible trade of doubtful war accounts for a promise to affect real disarmament. Unfortunately the state department's apparent desire to keep control of public thinking in the matter is partially frustrated by the logical connection between a presidential declaration for actual disarmament and the possibility that Europe's refusal to disarm will be used as an excuse to collect the war debts.

Grabbing the major minority of the President's stand on disarmament, the average type of citizen will find it difficult to believe that Mr. Hoover thinks there really could be a 20 per cent reduction in his figure. The people have reached the conclusion long since that disarmament conferences would be described better by the name of arms limitation efficiency conferences. Hence, alone, holding security to be the sole aim of any conference dealing with world peace, can block any actual disarmament in the present conference.

Governor White, Now Wet.

It will be with undivided surprise that a good many Ohioans who voted for him a while ago will be a day off the ballot by the time he has been a wet one. It appears his view in a letter to his senator Parker he won will now have him a great boy of the United States next week.

Governor White states in his letter to Parker that he will file in the registration by about half a day. Instead of an early filing, he would like to wait until the day before he gets down to fact. In view of the fact that the registration may be delayed, he has a contingency. Account having declared of the popular belief made in time to catch the ear of Democratic legislators living in the state that the convention is a demands for a early arrival of the states of a prohibition repeat measure. Mr. White recognizes the fact that he once was listed as a dry on the picks with wet Senator Parker by not advocating a popular measure. He is willing to do as his party dictates.

The people of Ohio are anxious to know where their government stands. Important matters are in general to say the least in his declaration. Public memory is failing. It is the how foolish of the people to let it be known that they had anything to do with electing George White. Such illusions are likely to be rampant in politics today. It is Governor White. He can't be for the presidency. Yesterday it was—but who wants to remember?

The Manly Art.

Americans pull many thousands of dollars directly and indirectly in lottery Tuesday night for a fight between what the observer called two tried business men. Achmed Iqbal is in perfect condition by all who had seen them confident them several of extreme heavy strength the two heavy weight contestants boxed vigorously for 10 rounds without so much as an blow struck hard enough to bring the attentive crowd to its feet. For a match to decide the heavyweight championship of the world the fight was unusually dull.

When the fight was over and Sharkey had been given a decision which the majority of observers either disagreed with actively or doubted seriously, the stage already was set for the next buildup. The championship is worth money if Sharkey can defend it successfully the first time he should be able to capitalize it for a respectable fortune. That's the game—money first sport afterward. If there happens to be time for it.

Both prizefighters remain and will continue to be despite a great many mediocre performances, one of the greatest spectacles there is in a nation that contributed freely to the first million dollar game.
The many art of self defense scarcely would be recognized by men who took it literally in days before sharp citizens discovered that it was possible to cause half a million dollars and more to change hands by selling a piece big enough to hold all the people who would pay to watch a couple of tried business men strike at each other.

to be in a bad hole right at the moment when it was imperative that he be viewed standing on a pedestal. The Walker case was a hot potato in a hand that will be hot the next few days. What
easier than to pass it back to little Jimmy's Nothing. Everything is entirely satisfactory now until Democrats either have named Franklin D. Roosevelt
as their presidential candidate—or someone else.
